

Landscape Urban Design in Kfar Bialik

A landscape masterplan for a residential development in greater Haifa, Israel

- A 'KAV BANOF Landscape Architecture & Environmental Design' project, for which I lead the concept design
- The design aims at developing an urban environment for 3000 families along one of the busiest roads in the north of Israel. A 50 meter wide bank of intensive parkland was designed along each side of the road
- The layout creates four green fingers that link the four clusters, or divisions, of the neighbourhood and provides linear gardens, play areas and cycling routes
